

Six of the best for M&S

June 2012 has seen the completion of 6 living walls at the new eco M&S store in Cheshire Oaks (near Ellesmere Port).

The living walls, which are M&S' largest and most varied walls yet, include 30 types of plants and flowers with many native species reflecting plants found in the local area. Irrigated from a rainwater harvesting system, the wall will provide a habitat for local bio-diversity.

With one living wall wrapping around the entrance to the car park and another green wall around the pedestrian walkway entrance to the car park, the end result is simply stunning!

The birds are flocking to the Floriade Exhibition

A recent visit to the Floriade exhibition confirmed the healthiness of the ANS Living walls. With bird boxes & insect hotels installed into the wall, both the internal and external walls are looking great. Our Dutch distributor is currently working on a number of live enquiries and the Floriade walls are proving a popular meeting point for architects and designers alike.

It's blooming marvellous at the flower show

Working with Aralia garden design, ANS Group had another living wall at Chelsea Flower Show this year.

Installed onto one side of a 'cube' building, the wall incorporated a number of different species including Buxus and various herbs.

ANS also supplied the green roof to the building which consisted of Festuca and wildflowers.

Hot off the press!

This month has seen the launch of the new ANS Group brochure. Including technical info, design processes, living screens and a large number of case studies, the brochure is a real 'must have'! Download yours here or call ANS Group to request a hard copy in the post.

ANS are back at the London Olympics site. Given extremely tight deadlines from design to completion, the challenge is on!
